"OUT OF THE GAG BAG"

Teacher: "Jimmy, why are you late for school every morning?"

Jimmy: "Every time I come to the corner a sign says: 'School—Go Slow'."

* * *

Father: "When I was a boy I thought nothing of a ten mile walk."

Son: "Well, I don't think so much of it myself."

* * *

Father: "Why were you kept in after school?"

Son: "I didn't know where the Arctic was."

Father: "Well, in the future, just remember where you put things."

* * *

"Does the animal trainer in a circus get much money?"

"He sure does. He gets the lion's share of the money."

* * *

"Boy, this sure is beastly weather!"

"What do you mean?"

"It's raining cats and dogs, isn't it?"

* * *

Angry mother (at dinner): "Billy, I wish you would stop reaching for things. Haven't you got a tongue?"

Billy: "Yes, Mother, but my arm is longer."

* * *

Neighbor: "Do you know where your brother is, Bobby?"

Bobby: "He's in the house playing a duet. I finished first."

* * *

A man took his young son out for a walk and after a few blocks noticed the boy was having difficulty keeping up with him. "Am I walking too fast?" he asked. "No," the youngster replied, "but I am."

* * *

While his mother waited in the car, a a little boy ambled up to the box office of the movie theater.

"What time," he inquired, "is the picture over three times?"

* * *

A friend's eight-year-old granddaughter had just started taking swimming lessons. She returned home full of praise for her swimming instructor. When her mother asked her how old he was, the youngster thought a moment and replied: "Oh, I don't know, but I would say that he is either a late teenager or an early man."

* * *

Collecting fares, the conductor on the bus stopped beside a small boy, who felt in all his pockets and looked under the seat while the conductor was waiting.

"What's the trouble, Sonny?" asked the conductor.

"I had a fifty cent piece and I lost it."

The little fellow looked so upset that the conductor's heart was touched and he gave him a ticket free. The boy looked up and, on the point of tears, whimpered: "And what about my change?"

* * *

At the dinner table one evening Phyllis reported proudly that her teacher had called her a beaver.

"For being such a hard worker, I suppose?" her mother observed, with equal pride.

"Well, no," Phyllis explained, "for chewing my pencil."

* * *

We were out for a ride, and when we crossed a rather crude bridge I remarked to my husband, "I wonder how long we are going to have to use this temporary bridge?" My nephew, 4, asked what I meant by "temporary." I replied, "I mean it will not be here very long."

Later at dinner, when I served him with pumpkin pie, he said:

"Ah, temporary pie!" I was surprised and asked, "What do you mean by that?" He replied, "I mean it won't be here very long."

* * *

A very small boy came home dejectedly from his first day at school.

"Ain't goin' tomorra," he said.

"And why not?" asked his mother.

"Well, I can't read, I can't write. They won't let me talk. So what's the use?"
